A well known topic will be given to the participating teams prior to the event as these topics would be dependent on research. Each team will be given 2 separate topics that will be complementary to each other, for example: Apple vs Android. Questions will be framed based on these topics by the organising committee. Every team will be asked a question which will be answered by them in a set time period. The team with the best answer will win. Eliminations will take place after Round 1.

MIX-NOT-MATCH

Selected teams will be promoted to this round. The members of the teams will be split and mixed with another member of opposite team. Each team represents opposing DEPARTMENTS of the same company that are debating over a topic.
